

Conventions used in typing the Gouge diplomatic versions

- Each page of the typed version corresponds to a page in the original manuscript.
- Words or items believed to be in Swanton's hand are italicized.
- Items that are crossed out in the original have been crossed out in the typed version.
- Sometimes a letter is written over another letter. In this case a note is made (see Notes).